

"LADY IN WHITE" KNOWN IN DUBLIN

Friend of Mrs. Prelan, Who Wore Evening Gown Constantly Aboard the Kroonland, Recognizes Picture in World.

USES MINERAL WATER FOR BATH, NOT AS A BEVERAGE.

Went from Paris to Ireland and Married the Young Son of Chief of Royal Irish Constabulary.

The "Lady in White" who crossed the Atlantic in a diaphanous gown and appeared morning, noon and night in the same evening dress, aboard the Red Star liner Kroonland was well known in Dublin.

The picture published in The Evening World was seen by one of her former friends, and he recognizes her as the eccentric woman who set all Dublin wondering a decade ago.

To an Evening World reporter this former friend of the "Lady in White" told the following story to-day:

"I knew Constantine Phelan ten years ago, and even then she had the same hobby about mineral water. She came from Paris to Dublin, and Irish society in that city was startled by her hankering after the spas. I remember seeing her the first time packing two large bottles of water. She announced to all that she did not want them for a beverage, but for a bath.

"When she first put in an appearance in Dublin and was seen at social functions, it was said she was of French birth, but I don't think that was the truth.

Went by an Irish Lad.
"It is my impression that she was English, although her French education and life in Paris went far to give the idea that she herself was of French birth. She had the manner and the air of a French woman.

"Not long after her advent in Dublin Daniel Phelan, a fine sprig of a boy, took a fancy to her. He was a stylish sort, the kind that dressed well and carried things off with a pretty swagger. There was a long courtship, and the end of it was a marriage, and the water-stricken woman became Mrs. Daniel Phelan. Dan's father was no longer a personage than Chief of the Royal Irish Constabulary of Dublin, and Dan the boy was quite a hummer on that account.

"The girl was supposed to be very wealthy, and Dan's friends thought he was a lucky lad in capturing this foreign-looking and foreign-talking lady. But Mrs. Phelan's fortune was by no means so large as was imagined by Dan's dear friends. It dwindled rapidly after the ceremony and Dan went to work. He took a position in one of the most prominent breweries in the world, famous for its stout.

"While Dan gave his time and his mind to the best of malt, Mrs. Dan remained faithful to her first eccentric fancy, mineral water. Neither could reach the same plane, and pretty soon the woman's fondness for spa baths made the husband so unhappy that they separated for a time.

Mineral Water on the Brain.
"Now, so far as I know, Dan is not dead, though he may be. The last time I met Mrs. Phelan she was in Lucan, which is a new suburb of Dublin. She stopped me and talked mineral water until I thought I was a blooming fount myself.

"Now, there aren't more than two people in the world who get them that way, and there is no other just like Conny Phelan. The plan was enough for me. That's the girl for a certainty."

The "Lady in White" eccentric beyond a doubt, still believes she will reach those famous North Carolina springs of which they told her in Europe. She has not been told that the return trip to Europe will be necessary for her well being, and every one she meets is sure to help her along on her journey. She is waiting for her $30 quarterly pension.

In the mean time she clings to her white evening gown. "Can a woman wear more than one dress at a time?"

TROLLEY AT WAR WITH TOWN BOARD

Switch Laid in Record Time by Traction Company Torn Up an Hour Later by Town Officials.

(Special to The Evening World.)
MT. HOLLY, N. J., Aug. 5.—Trouble has broken out between the authorities and the Peoples Traction Company, because of the premature installation of a curve at the corner of High and Mill streets. It is alleged that the work was hastily done before an agreement as to its position had been reached, and that there was no room for the passing vehicles between the tracks and street corner.

Officials of the trolley company and the town authorities have failed to agree after discussing the matter for a week.

The township committee were spectators last evening when a carload of laborers were taken upon the scene. In just eleven minutes this force completed the remaining work on the curve and filled the excavation with dirt.

The township committee then secured a force of men and, setting them to work last night at 11 o'clock, had the switch torn up at 1 o'clock this morning.

The trolley people are working under an ordinance giving them permission to install a siding at the point of dispute, but it is alleged by Attorney Richard Peckham that this ordinance is defective and that there was a verbal agreement that the frog was to be laid at a point satisfactory to the committee, which was not done.

The committee now declares that no circumstances will the trolley company be permitted to use any portion of Mill street, which blocks the road extension of the road to Smith-

NEW ACTRESS AND OLD ACTOR WHO APPEARED IN "THE ETERNAL CITY" AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC

"ETERNAL CITY" AT THE ACADEMY

Big Audience Evidently Liked the Show as Staged and Voted Miss Janet Waldorf as Being All to the Astoria.

With "The Eternal City" erected on its stage, the Academy of Music last night ushered in fourteenth street new theatrical season. Auspiciously, yes for the audience was of a size to fill the place; and an audience to fill the Academy is one to make the heart of any manager glad.

(And Tammany Hall only half a block away!) Let him who raised the wild alarm "Election" count himself a false prophet and forever sold his peace. Hurrah for both sides, but don't block the way to the box-office!

Little more need be said, unless it is that the Dewey's pointed red—the boldest, brightest red that ever faded, in this respect the Dewey and Hall Caine are alike; both believe in color. And while Mr. Caine dramatizes the Pope, the Dewey not infrequently expresses his religious spirit by crowding a chaotic burlesque with a Clinging-to-the-Cross picture.

Mr. Caine's Pope—played by Mr. Frank C. Bangs in a gentle and dignified manner—impressed the fourteenth street quite markedly, as did, in fact, the whole play. The Academy is the place for "The Eternal City," and not alone for the reason that its stage is almost big enough for a town site. The audience liked, too, all the actors and the melodramatic manner of their acting. It voted Miss Janet Waldorf all to the Astoria. Miss Janet Waldorf, who is a French actress, has been in the city for some time, and her performance in "The Eternal City" was a great success. She played the role of the Pope's daughter, and her performance was a great success. She played the role of the Pope's daughter, and her performance was a great success.

MONT PELEE ONE OF CONEY'S WONDERS

Thousands Daily Witness This Remarkable Spectacle on Surf Avenue—Johnstown Flood Also Popular.

The big scenic reproduction of the eruption of Mont Pelee, the West Indian volcano which wiped out 20,000 persons in a few moments on the island of Martinique, has proved one of the most popular spectacles that has ever been given at Coney Island. This spectacle is magnificently housed at Surf Avenue and Fifth Street, and although it is only opened this season it has already proved a remarkable success, thousands of persons taking advantage of the rare opportunity to see this great historic event reproduced with fidelity.

The performance is wonderful for the combination of scenic and electrical effects, and the music is rendered positively startling by the clever mechanical manipulation. A spectacle of this kind is only possible in the hands of a scientific man, and Mr. Herbert A. Bradwell, the inventor and handler of the performance, is easily a leader in his line.

The Mont Pelee show is one that everybody ought to see, both because of its interest as a spectacle and because of the importance of the history of the tragic event of which it is a most faithful reproduction. It is estimated that since the great Johnstown Flood spectacle was first produced at Buffalo over three million persons have witnessed it, yet so marvelous and thrilling is the performance that public interest has never abated in it in the least, and now that it is located on Surf Avenue, Coney Island, the burst of that eighteen-foot wall of water through the dam of the Allegheny foothills which descended on the sleeping village of Johnstown, carrying everything before it, is reproduced with an exactness which is startling, and one feels his breath at the performance, as real as the scene of the destruction and the scene painter made it.

A day at Coney Island would hardly be complete without seeing this great spectacle.

For men who are going on their vacation here's a sale of $10 and $12 Homespun Outing Suits at $5.00.

(For Friday and Saturday Only.)

If you, like hundreds of others, are going on your vacation, you'll need one of these suits. Don't confound or compare them with ordinary suits, for these bear the imprint of careful tailoring and the characteristic features of style that place Vogel Brothers' suits in a class distinctly their own. They're in gray, brown and olive homespun. And if you want outing suits, coat and trousers, at $5, you'd better come early. There's only a limited quantity on sale. The former prices were $10 and $12.

Sale of Suits of Intense Interest to Men.

$18, $20, $22 and $25 Suits Reduced to $14.50.

Don't infer! Don't accept as a standard other suit sales. This sale is as distinctive as the suits themselves—a chance that is seldom furnished. Here's the kernel of the story: There remain of the best selling lines a few suits of a kind—some 200 in all—smart worsteds, cassimeres, chevots, blue and black serges, etc. All were $18, $20, $22 and $25, now reduced to the uniform price—$14.50.

MARRIES A SECOND TIME.

Senator Clark's Son Weds San Francisco Girl.

That the members of Senator William A. Clark's family believe in marriage is shown in the announcement of the wedding of his son, Charles W. Clark, and Miss Cecilia Tobin, a society favorite of San Francisco. The ceremony was performed in that city at noon yesterday at the home of the bride. It is young Mr. Clark's second marriage, his first wife having died in New York about a year ago.

Only a short time ago society was amazed at the announcement that the Senator had married his ward in France three years ago, not even the immediate members of his family having known of the ceremony.

Going for an outing?
If you're off to-morrow for the seashore, mountains or country don't lessen the pleasure of your outing by going unprepared. There's hardly a thing that will contribute to your comfort or appearance that you'll not find in this store, but here's the Important news:

Our semi-annual inventory sales include all reasonable merchandise suitable for outing purposes, and prices are from one-quarter to one-half. Just to give you an idea of the wonderful bargains that await Saturday morning shoppers we mention

$6 for men's $12 outing suits—boys' $2 wash suits at 50c.—women's 50c. neckwear, 25c.—$1 chiffon veils, 50c.—25c. pure linen handkerchiefs, 12 1/2c.—women's $1.50 belts at 50c.—men's $5 blue serge coats at $2.50, and this isn't one-tenth part of the bargains.

Clearing sale of men's hose.

WE'VE gathered all the odd lots—broken sizes and discontinued numbers—in three great lots and priced them for Saturday morning's selling very much lower than those of equal quality have ever been quoted at before.

This is the sort of sale that saving men usually buy in half dozen pairs. We've arranged to wait upon you quickly.

10c for men's 19c hose—We say 19c. hose because we once priced them at that figure, but you'll admit they sell for more elsewhere—plain and fancy lisle thread and cottons—including silk-embroidered goods, odd pairs and broken sizes.

19c for men's 25c to 39c half hose—Imported socks in lisle thread and cottons—Hermesdorf dye-black and fancy colorings—broken lines and odd pairs—no two pairs alike.

25c for men's 50c to 75c imported lisle thread socks, comprising sheer blacks and various lots of all descriptions of fancy effects—no two pairs alike—broken assortments.

250 men's bathing suits, worth to $3, at $1.25.
Main Floor.

THERE'S a $3 suit for you if you come quickly Saturday morning, and at any time up to 1 o'clock we'll promise you an excellent suit. This is positively the last of our season's stock, and it's to clear them in a few hours that we've marked the price so low. They're high-grade suits that fit perfectly. What a contrast between them and the cheap, misshapen suits rented and worn by everybody at the beach. One of these will cost you far less in the long run.

$1.25 $1.25

Men's $1 negligee shirts 39c.
Main Floor.

THAT'S the order of the day for to-morrow's selling—it's the direct result of after-inventory exigencies when our policy demands a quick clearing of all reasonable merchandise.

These are ideal shirts to wear on your vacation, and you know it's not often you can secure $1 shirts for 39c. Not all worth $1—some are only worth 65c.

39c for men's 65c to $1.00 shirts:

250 dozen negligee shirts left to clear up—they are all in light and medium colorings and white—madras and prints—plain and plaid fronts—mostly all with detached cuffs to match perfect goods, desirable patterns—well made and perfect fitting—all odd lots of goods that were from 65c. to $1.00—at 39c. each.

20c lb. for 30c chocolates and bonbons.
25c for a pound box of 45c. chocolates.

$1 for pair of men's $1.75 crash trousers.
$6 for men's $12 practical outing suits.
$5 each Saturday for men's $9 odd coats.

$2.50 pair for men's $5 dressy trousers.
